The main headline is "India's 2010 silver imports seen jumping" by Reuters, dated Tuesday, 7 December 2010, 8:57 PM. The article text states: "MUMBAI (Reuters) - A partial recovery in consumption during the festival season is seen pushing up India's silver imports in 2010 by 20 percent on year to 1,200 tonnes, potentially supporting world prices, a trade body head said." An image shows a jeweller displaying silver plates in the form of rupee notes. A quote from Pithvira Kohhari, president of the Boribay Bullion Association, is included: "Silver sales have been good this year for festivals. There has been a rise of 25 percent imports may also rise on the back of this to 1,200 tonnes in 2010." The right sidebar features "Top Stories" and a "Special Feature" on Direct Tax Code changes.
